REBELS TAKE THE TOWN OF JIMENEZ

Jimenez, a town of 5000 inhabitants between Chihuahua city and Torreon, was taken yesterday by "Constitutionalists" after a brief battle with a small federal garrison. By success in the attack, the insurgents have isolated the Parral mining district, where 15000 federals are located, from either rail or wire communication. Jimenez is the Parral branch junction point on the main line of the Mexican Central, and was for many weeks the headquarters of Federal forces during the rebel campaign a year ago.

After taking Jimenez the "Constitutionalists" hurried north and drove the federals out of Santa Rosalia, located about midway between Jimenez and the state capital. Major Ariza, with about 200 men of the Santa Rosalia garrison, took a train and rushed to Chihuahua, followed a part of the way by the trains of the victorious insurgents.

Holding Jimenez and Santa Rosalia, the "Constitutionalists" indefinitely control all traffic to the interior of Mexico and the Parral branch to the west. There are many American, English and German residents marooned at Parral, center of a rich mining district.

Matamoros in Danger.
Brownsville, Texas, April 17.—"Constitutionalists" estimated to the number of 400, are reported to be preparing to attack Matamoros, the Mexican town opposite here, late today. Last night these troops were reported 20 miles south of Matamoros. Matamoros has a strong garrison which is preparing to fight.

DR. GOMEZ IN CUBA.
Havana, Cuba, April 17.—Dr. Francisco Gomez, who was secretary of education under provisional president De La Barra and later candidate for the vice presidency, has arrived here from Veracruz on the steamer Morro Castle under an assumed name. He said he was compelled to flee from Mexico, as he feared his life was in danger.

MADERISTA HAS MUCH TO SAY

Out of Mexico, Safe From Arrest This Colonel Tells Much About Huerta And His Cruelty.
New Orleans, La., April 17.—Col. Silvino M. Garcia, former Maderista commandant of the state of Zacatecas, who arrived today, declared that Carranza would be seated as president of the republic by June 15.

Col. Garcia declared that Carranza, within a month, would be able to mobilize an army of 70,000 men, two-thirds of whom would remain on garrison duty throughout the republic, while 25,000 picked men engaged in the campaign against the capital.

The federal troops, he said, were raiding and burning ranches and even murdering pacific residents. Col. Garcia said the state of Zacatecas is controlled by the revolutionists under the leadership of Col. Eulalio Guillerme.

Serapio Aguierre, member of the Mexican national congress from the central district of Coahuila, has arrived here en route to Monclova, Coahuila, to join governor Carranza. He declared that the "Constitutionalists" had given their ultimatum to the Huerta government which was:

1. The immediate resignation of Huerta and his cabinet.

2. The departure from the republic of all federal troops, including Felix Diaz Carr, Mondragon and Gen. Blanquet.

He denied emphatically that any branch of the revolutionists is in favor of secession.

GEN. WOOD TO VISIT THE TEXAS BORDER

Washington, D. C., April 17.—Major General Wood, accompanied by Capt. Powell Clayton, his aid, has started for Texas to make a survey of the condition of the United States troops along the border. This will be followed by a visit to the concentration camp at Texas City, where Gen. Wood will give his personal attention to complaints against military and other conditions there.

ZAPATA IS THE CHAMPION LITTLE MEXICAN RECOGNIZER

New Orleans, La., April 17.—Gen. Emiliano Zapata has recognized governor Carranza as leader of the "Constitutionalist" force in Mexico, according to a statement issued by the New Orleans "Constitutionalist" junta.

Just a year ago, Zapata officially recognized Orozco as his leader, but this recognition only continued as long as Orozco remained in rebellion; when Orozco laid down his arms, Zapata looked about for a new "leader" to recognize.

HUERTA WILL PAY SALAZAR'S BILLS

Col. Juan N. Vasquez, commander of the Huerta garrison, says that clothing and equipment supplied to Salazar's men last week will be paid for by the federal authorities. He declares that payment has never been refused by him. However, there were some things purchased by Salazar in El Paso during the time he occupied Palomas, which the government will not pay. At that time he was fighting the government.

PORTILLO REPORTED TO HAVE QUIT HUERTA

Fail of Parral is Reported in Juarez But is Not Credited, as Wires Are Down to South.

There is a report in Juarez that Enrique Portillo, with 24 followers, has revolted against the Huerta government at old Casas Grandes. Portillo has been jefe politico of that town for some months.

A report that Parral has fallen into the hands of the constitutionalists is doubted, as a federal garrison of 800 men is reported to be there. However, there is no telegraphic communication with the town.

MEXICO MUST PAY HEAVY FOR LOAN.

Mexico City, Mex., April 17.—The financial situation has not been altered; exchange is high and scarce. It is reported the European bankers will agree to a loan if authorized by congress, but the conditions proposed are regarded as almost ruinous.

The bill providing for a ten per cent tax on the export of gold, now in the senate, is meeting with great opposition by those interested in mining. It is said that Manuel Lujan will be offered the provisional governorship of Chihuahua, Pascual Orozco having declined. It is assumed that Orozco's reason for his wish to stand for election in the hope of succeeding the provisional governor.

JUAREZ HAS NO FEAR, BUT TAKES SOME PRECAUTIONS.

"Juarez is not fearing any attack," according to Col. Juan N. Vasquez. However, two canoes, which were planted near the racetrack, were removed from there Wednesday evening and taken to the outskirts of the town on the west. It is not known in which direction they are pointed.

The Hula Dance Expresses Romance By Michelson

The Hula Dance begins with the most graceful movements of the body, but winds up in a wild frenzy, the dancers often falling completely exhausted.

By Margaret Hubbard Ayer.
THERE are two or three places whose very names invite a tired mortal to rest. One of them is a castle in Spain, the other the "Land of the Gods," but the most accessible is Hawaii.

Every one as some time longs to go to that land of delight, where the gentle people greet you with "Aloha," meaning "love to you," where nature is both beautiful and beautiful and provides the natives with fruits and flowers for the asking, where life is a long day dream untroubled by the need of constant effort.

But the tourist arriving in Honolulu at once starts to improve the shining hour in the true Occidental way. He considers it imperative to learn something of the manners and customs of the gentle, childlike race of the Hawaiians, and he refuses to succumb to the indolent languor of the air or to be conquered by the perfume of the lay Hly and the gorgeous roses and Jessamine.

It is with embarrassment that he accepts the first wreath offered him, a wreath of flower petals which he hangs about his neck with a sheepish look. For he is bound to investigate Hawaiian customs, and shortly he will find himself watching the Hula Hula dance associated with a very central but a very secret quarter of Honolulu.

New National Dance.
Before the white man came to Hawaii the hula dance was performed by professional dancers, who were devotees of the Goddess Laka, a name too proper deity whom the missionaries soon banished.

The hula dances are story dances. They illustrate the story told in the song chanted by older men who act as chorus.

Kul, a dance of the athletes, the strong and well built Hawaiian youths posing in this dance to show their strength and power.
After this prelude the young women enter. The hula dancers wear a wrapper of paper cloth material, but their main decoration consists of wreaths of flowers. Garlands of roses and ferns are entwined in their dark hair, and their skin, of the color of old mahogany, reflects the dark hue of the rose wreaths entwined around their necks.

They wear bracelets made of the teeth of hogs, and ornaments of whale's teeth.
They crouch upon the floor. An old man starts the chant with a piercing cry. The song is evidently an invocation to the goddess of the dance.

The dancers begin to sway rhythmically, moving their arms only. At first they sway with the upper part of the body. The half guttural, half nasal chant, goes in, growing ever louder and wilder. The dancers have risen to their feet. They remain standing in one place, but the wild movements and contortions depict at one time the wooing of the Spirit of Light or the battle of the Host of Devils. Arms toss, bodies writhe. The chant becomes wilder, the dancers more excited until the climax is reached, ending in a final hysterical outburst, which leaves the dancers completely exhausted. They sink to the floor as if lifeless.

Such is the hula hula dance, sometimes done in honor of the gods or chiefs, but generally to gratify the desire for excitement. The Hawaiians are full of music, they are poetic and passionate, and their dances show the perfection of their sense of rhythm.

Drums Made of Tree.
The musical instruments of the ancient Hawaiians were extremely simple and there were but few. The Hawaiian nose flute was made of a joint of bamboo pierced in such a way as to be used by blowing through the nose into the reed.

A very primitive guitar was made by mounting a piece of flexible wood with strings of coconut fiber. Their drums were made of a section of coconut tree hollowed out and spread with the skin of a shark.
The drum is used to excite the hula dancers, but the chant of the chief singer and the bystanders is often enough to work them up to a high pitch of frenzy.
As they cannot move from their station on the floor this dance shows off the various muscular convolutions of the body, something like the East Indian nautch dance, but none much faster and with more violence.

SALAZAR ASKS ALL TO LAY DOWN ARMS

Ynez Salazar, commander of the Casas Grandes district has issued a manifesto calling upon all Chihuahuans to lay down their arms and restore peace with reason and not with rifle. Ynez Salazar and his secretary, V. M. Rincon Gallardo. With a small detachment of his men, Salazar left Pearson on Wednesday and went Guzman, but the reason for his move is not known.

REBELS NEAR MATAMORAS.
Brownsville, Tex., April 17.—Five hundred revolutionists are near the town of Aldamas, 100 miles south of the border, awaiting an opportunity to seize a train and make a quick entry into Matamoros, Mexico, according to information received by railroad officials at Matamoros.

Prince of the Poets.
The French poet, Leon Dierx, was found lying dead upon his bed by his landlady. The day before he accompanied Messrs. Henri de Regnier, Victor Marguerite, and other men of letters to the house where the poet Stephane Mallarme used to live, and read a poem which he had written in honor of the anniversary. He left the cafe at 11, and as he passed the concierge said: "Ah, well! I would be going to rest—if only I need not wake again!" The good woman scolded him for saying such things, and soon after his brother called and stayed with him till two in the morning. Next day he was discovered lifeless in his room, his last wish being thus fulfilled. Leon Dierx was 74 years old. In 1901, after the death of Mallarme, the young poets elected him their "Prince," though he was not a candidate for that honor.—London Evening Standard.
